Intesa Sanpaolo Gallerie d'Italia is pleased to present Luca Locatelli. The Circle, the world premiere of a new series of photographs by the 2020 World Press Photo Contest winner and internationally renowned reporter Luca Locatelli.

For the last years, Locatelli has been travelling around many different countries – Denmark, Germany, Iceland, Italy, Spain and Switzerland to cite a few – to document practices and stories that could shed light on that model of production and consumption known as the Circular Economy.

This exhibition at Gallerie d'Italia in Turin presents more than 100 photographs made by Locatelli in the last two years of his research journey around Europe, along with new video works and infographics, offering insights into contemporary, experimental sustainable practices and initiatives: from the world's first high-altitude floating solar park, in Lac des Toiles, Switzerland to the system used by a company in Ría de Arousa, Spain to create a sustainable and highly effective filtration system for sea impurities.

Luca Locatelli. The Circle is organised with the knowledge support from the Chicago-based Ellen MacArthur Foundation, in collaboration with Fondazione Cariplo and Fondazione Compagnia di San Paolo, and in partnership with Leica.
